

Documentary Film Event on Food and Recovery

Health 2010-06-08 14:38:59

Washington, DC – The nonprofit Second Genesis will feature two films and a panel discussion on food and health this Thursday, June 10, to expand access to local low-income community members.

“Nora!”, a film discussing Nora Poillion who started the first certified organic restaurant in D.C., will start off the event followed by “Fresh”, a documentary focusing on the innovators in the sustainable food movement including Joel Salatin and 2008 MacArthur Genius Award winner Will Allen.

It is the premiere for both films in Maryland.

A panel discussion after this films will highlight Susan Toppings, the coordinator of the Capitol Area Food Bank, that gives low-income families access to fresh produce through Clagett Farms and From the Ground Up; Lynn Burke from Second Genesis on gardening as therapy; and Val Robinson, creator of the Hip Hop Diet program that address teaching workshops on nutrition focused on low-income African American females with addiction issues.

For more information on Second Genesis go to www.secondgenesis.org

For tickets to the event, visit www.brownpapertickets.com/event/112611

WHAT : Documentary Film Event on Food and Recovery

WHEN : 2010-06-08 14:38:59

WHERE :

CONTACT:

Brandon Abbott
CapitalWirePR Staff
202-662-7242
info@capitalwirepr.com

Bianca Poll
8611 Second Avenue
Suite 300
Silver Spring, MD 20910
301-563-1545 x-317
bianca.poll@secondgenesis.org